I. PURPOSE: This directive provides rules governing inmate acquisition, use, and disposition of radios, headphone-radios, tape players, and radio/tape player combinations.

For the purposes of this directive, inmate-owned personal radios, headphone-radios, tape players, and radio/tape player combinations shall be referred to as audio units.

II. POLICY

A. General

1. Only audio units which conform to the provisions of this directive and Directive #4911, "Packages & Articles Sent or Brought to Facilities," will be allowed.
2. An inmate may possess and use only one audio unit at any one time.
Exception: Inmates at shock incarceration correctional facilities are not allowed to possess audio units of any kind.
3. The Superintendent at each correctional facility may allow audio units as a local permit item in accordance with Directive #4911, Section IV, "Local Permits."
4. An audio unit and a headphone set may be received through purchase from the commissary, ordered directly from a manufacturer or established dealer (see Directive #4911), or brought with an inmate when transferred from another facility.
5. Audio units may not be altered in any way.
6. Inmates may not loan, sell, or give away their audio units except as provided for in Section E below.
7. An inmate's failure to comply with the procedures as set forth in this directive will result in the issuance of a misbehavior report and/or the confiscation of the audio unit.

B. Description/Restrictions

1. The price of any single audio unit may not exceed $150. A radio/tape player combination shall be considered a single unit.
2. Audio units will be battery or AC current. Because of limited electrical capacity, AC operated units may be used only with the permission of the Superintendent.
3. The size limit for audio units is 8" x 14". However, units received prior to August 2, 1991 and larger than the 8" x 14" size may be retained by the original owners.

4. External speakers are prohibited.
  5. Audio units with recording capabilities, microphones, or “talk switch” recording devices are prohibited.
  6. Audio units with external antennas are prohibited. An external antenna must be removed by the manufacturer or vendor.
  7. Audio units with detachable components (except headphones) are not allowed.
- C. Use
1. An audio unit is only approved for use in an inmate’s cell or cube, or other area approved by the Superintendent.
  2. An audio unit must be used with an earplug/earphone or headphones, unless otherwise directed by the Superintendent. Speakers are not to be disconnected.
- D. Repair: Audio units in need of repair will be sent out by the facility. All service charges will be borne by the inmate.
- E. Transfer, Discharge, Transfer of Ownership
1. With authorization from the Superintendent or designee, an inmate being discharged may transfer ownership to another inmate as long as the unit is clear cased and meets the specifications outlined in this directive and Directive #4911. Radios owned under a previous version of this directive cannot be transferred to another inmate under any circumstances.
  2. Purchase of an audio unit shall be made with the understanding that in the event of transfer to another facility where the audio unit is not allowed, the unit will be disposed of in accordance with Directive #4913, “Inmate Property.”
  3. By signing a local permit, the inmate indicates his or her understanding that the permit is valid at their current facility and in the event that he or she is transferred and cannot obtain a local permit for the article at their subsequent location, the article must be disposed of in accordance with Directive #4913.
- F. Confiscation: Audio units confiscated from inmates as a result of violation of these procedures will be processed as disallowed property in accordance with Directive #4913.
- G. Signed Agreement: The facility shall provide two copies of these procedures to each inmate who acquires an audio unit. The inmate will fill in the make, model, and serial number below, and sign the two copies to confirm that he or she is familiar with the procedures and agrees to abide by them. One copy shall be filed in the inmate’s folder and one copy retained by the inmate.
