Food And Books Collected In Dr. Martin Luther King's Honor

April 22, 2015

The Watertown and Hale Creek Correctional Facilities recently held events to collect and distribute both food and books to local charities. Staff and inmates at Watertown took part in the donation of food, books, and money. In all 84 pounds of food, 4205, and 102 books was donated.

At Hale Creek, books and money were donated to local charities. Hale Creek staff collected 180 children's books and $156 to donate. Staff members at Hale Creek took time to read a few books in a local first grade classroom- an event that was featured in the local newspaper.

The events at both facilities were part of an annual Dr. Martin Luther King remembrance where facilities conduct positive activities in Dr. King's honor.
