DOCCS Celebrates Pretrial, Probation and Parole Supervision Week

This week DOCCS is celebrating Pretrial, Probation and Parole Supervision Week, in recognition of the hard work and dedication these men and women show on a daily basis. Governor Andrew M. Cuomo signed a proclamation recognizing the week in New York State. Part of the proclamation reads "...working in one of the largest states in the nation, Parole Officers and Probation Officers play an integral role in keeping communities all across New York State safe."

Of the 29,000 DOCCS employees, across the state, 1,282 are Community Supervision staff members who are responsible for nearly 36,000 parolees throughout New York State
