

Eastern Correctional Facility Hosts College Debate

On April 26th, Eastern Correctional Facility hosted a debate between students from the Bard Prison Initiative and West Point United State Military Academy. The topic of the debate asked if the rapid automation of labor does more harm than good. Bard's team argued that automation causes a greater degree of harm, while West Point's team debated that the net gain of rapid automation is positive. Ultimately, the team from Bard won, with all three judges voting in favor of their argument
