

Gowanda Correctional Facility Inmates Donate to Local Community and Victims of Hurricane Harvey

Several inmate organizations at Gowanda Correctional Facility have recently chosen to give back, donating both their time and money to those in need. Members of the Christian faith community at Gowanda chose to make a donation to the American Red Cross after learning of the devastation caused by Hurricane Harvey. The generous donation came out of the proceeds of the tithes and offerings collected by the Protestant and Catholic faith group at the facility. In addition, participants in Gowanda's horticulture program, under the direction of Vocational Teacher Scott Wagner, donated their time and skills to a local nursing home. Over 25 flower baskets created by inmates were donated to the Gowanda Nursing Home to be placed throughout the facility, a donation that was happily accepted by nursing home staff.
