Gouverneur Correctional Facility Inmates Build Meals for Local Nutrition Program

Inmates from the Gouverneur Correctional Facility pitched in and helped out a local cause. The Nutrition Program was in need of stainless steel box inserts to retain heat for meals that are delivered locally. A retired correction officer from Gouverneur approached the facility to garner interest in having the Vocational Welding program assist in the efforts. Once an idea was established the boxes were completed in just a few short days. Inmates in the welding shop not only learned employable skills, but also took great pride in doing the work, knowing of the importance of giving back.
