INMATE GRIEVANCE PROGRAM
ANNUAL REPORT
2013

I. INTRODUCTION

The Inmate Grievance Program (IGP) functions under Departmental Directive #4040 entitled "Inmate Grievance Program" and Departmental Directive #4041 entitled "Inmate Grievance Program Modification Plan" and is established by the statutory mandates of Section 139 NYS Correction Law and N.Y.C.R.R., Title 7, Part 701.

The Inmate Grievance Program provides each inmate an orderly, fair, simple and expeditious method of resolving grievances pursuant to Section 139, NYS Correction Law. The program also includes procedures for inmates to resolve allegations of discriminatory treatment in accordance with the New York State (NYS) Commission of Correction regulation 9 NYCRR Part 7695. Grievances filed prior to July 7, 1990 were reviewed by the NYS Commission of Correction and responded to by the Commissioner. Correction Law 139 was amended by Chapter 373 of the Laws of 1990 deleting the requirement that the NYS Commission of Correction review individual grievances, yet required it to review and assess the grievance process on an annual basis. The elimination of the advisory step ensures that the grievance process is more expeditious, and at the same time allows the NYS Commission of Correction to provide oversight.

On September 28, 1992, the U. S. Department of Justice, Office of the Associate Attorney General, pursuant to the authority conferred by Title 42, United States Code, Section 1997e and Part 40 of Title 28, Code of Federal Regulations granted full certification that the NYS Department of Correctional Services Inmate Grievance Program is in substantial compliance with the standards set forth in Part 40 of Title 28, Code of Federal Regulations. Based on this certification, the court may order that prior to litigating claims under 42 U.S.C. Section 1983, New York State inmates shall exhaust any remedies they have through the Inmate Grievance Program. For the purpose of this order, the disposition of the Central Office Review Committee (CORC) constitutes sufficient proof of exhaustion. In 1996, the federal government passed the Prisoner's Litigation Reform Act (PLRA) which enacted the same requirement for all inmates.

On May 29, 2001, the United States Supreme Court decision in Booth v. Churner required that prisoners exhaust their administrative remedies before bringing damage lawsuits in federal court even if the administrative remedy does not provide damages. Subsequently, on February 26, 2002, the United States Supreme Court decision in Porter v. Nussle held that the exhaustion requirement applies to all inmate suits about prison life, whether they involve general circumstances or particular episodes and whether they allege excessive force or some other wrong. These decisions, along with the PLRA have had an impact on the number of grievances being appealed to CORC. The impact is addressed in Part IV of this report.

Directive #4040 was last revised on July 12, 2006 and included changed time frames for processing grievances at all levels from business days to calendar days. As a result inmates are afforded more time to file and appeal a grievance. Also, a new section was added to the directive describing the procedures already in place for the processing of Strip Search/Strip Frisk grievances. The IGP remains an orderly, fair, simple and expeditious method of resolving grievances and is in compliance with the standards set forth in Part 40 of Title 28, Code of Federal Regulations and the Federal Certification.

At the end of 2012 the Department developed a Language Assistance Program (LAP) to ensure non-English speaking inmates were afforded translation and interpretation services. In order to monitor these grievances Code 10-College Programs was replaced by LAP, and College Programs was combined with Code 9-GED on the Code Classification Sheet.

In 2013, the procedure for processing grievances regarding the Office of Mental Health (OMH) changed. They are now forwarded directly to the Superintendent and OMH Unit Chief, responded to, and closed. The Superintendent's response advises the grievant that OMH is a separate entity, not under the jurisdiction of DOCCS, and that in accordance with Directive #4040 §701.3 (e) and (f) the complaint is being forwarded to the OMH Unit Chief for whatever action is deemed appropriate. The inmate is also notified that the Superintendent's response completes the IGP process and there is no further appeal available.

II. STATISTICAL ANALYSIS OF IGP WORKLOAD

There were 31,638 grievances filed in 2013, a decrease from the 32,579 filed in 2012. This is a decrease of 941 grievances as compared to the decrease of 1,434 grievances last year. Over the past seven years there have been fluctuations in the numbers of grievances filed, from a high of 46,529 in 2007, to the current low this year. The trend by inmates to exhaust their administrative remedies by filing a grievance and appealing it to CORC has continued.

It is noted that the inmate population, the number of grievances filed and the number of CORC appeals have been steadily declining since 2007.

During 2013, IGP field staff recorded approximately 18,226 non-calendared inmate contacts, clarifying issues and enabling inmates to resolve problems without submitting a formal grievance. This is a decrease of 3,011 from the 21,237 in 2012.

There were 4,245 grievances, or 13.4% of the total filed that were informally resolved by the Inmate Grievance Resolution Committee (IGRC) in 2013, an increase from the 3,916 grievances, or 12% of the total filed last year (refer to Chart #1). This is an increase of 329 informal resolutions or 7.8%.

There was a statewide total of 21,156 IGRC hearings in 2013 or 67% of the total filed, a decrease from the 23,148 or 71% of the total filed last year (refer to Chart #2). This is a decrease of 1,992 or 9.4%.

In 2013, there were 1,147 grievances dismissed and closed by the IGRC, a decrease from the 1,907 last year. This represents 3.6% of all grievances filed, a decrease from the 5.9% last year.

There were 17,800 grievances responded to at the Superintendent's level in 2013 or 56.2% of the total grievances filed, a decrease from the 18,253 grievances or 56% of the total filed last year (refer to Chart #4). This represents a 2.5% decrease from last year.

There were 21,704 grievances or 68.6% of the grievances filed that were resolved/ closed at the facility level in 2013, a decrease from the 22,815 grievances or 70% of the total filed last year (refer to Chart #3). This reflects a decrease of 1,111. For clarification, the number of grievances closed at the facility level has been computed by subtracting the number of grievances heard at CORC from the total number of grievances filed.

As of February 1, 1994, any grievances alleging violations of Directive #4910, Control of & Search for Contraband, during a strip search/strip frisk are reported on the Code Classification Sheet in Codes 25.1 for Strip Search and 25.2 for Strip Frisk. There were 32 Code 25.1 (Strip Search) and 25.2 (Strip Frisk) grievances in 2013, a decrease from the 29 in 2012. This compares to 39 in 2011, 29 in 2010, 31 in 2009, 31 in 2008, 41 in 2007, 54 in 2006 and 47 in 2005.

Beginning in September 1999, grievances related to Native American issues were monitored for two years. These grievances have "Native American" in the title and were reported monthly. Through 2000 there were 54 grievances regarding Native American issues reported. In 2001 there were 50 grievances in this category. Through July 2002 an additional 21 Native American grievances were reported. Although still tracked using the title, subsequent reports have not been requested since July 2002.

In 1999, Code 23.1 was created to account for grievances filed regarding the Department's Smoke Free Policy. There were 15 grievances filed in 2013, a decrease from the 26 in 2012. There were 18 in 2011, 49 in 2010, 22 in 2009, 51 in 2008, 51 in 2007, 37 in 2006 and 41 in 2005.

Effective July 2000, Code 25.3 was created to account for any grievances regarding pat frisks of female inmates. In the last six months of 2000, there were 3 grievances filed in this category. A total of 6 was reported in 2013, 7 in 2012, 3 in 2011, 7 in 2010, 17 in 2009, 6 in 2008, 9 in 2007, 3 in 2006, 9 in 2005, 7 in 2004, 11 in 2003, 5 in 2002, and 7 in 2001.

In 2004, Code 22.1 was created to account for any grievances related to the Health Insurance Portability and Accountability Act (HIPAA). There were 142 grievances filed in 2013, a decrease from the 151 in 2011. There were 146 in 2011, 178 in 2010, 137 in 2009, 138 in 2008, 196 in 2007, 152 in 2006 and 170 in 2005.

III. IGP STAFF

Inmate Grievance Program Central Office staff made approximately 23 facility visits during 2013, an increase from the 10 last year. Continued fiscal constraints have contributed to the lack of facility visits. IGP Central Office staff conducted orientation/training sessions for 971 Correction Officer Recruits and 82 Correctional Sergeants at the Department's Training Academy. In addition to regularly scheduled weekly CORC meetings, IGP Central Office staff presented training to new Regional Health Service's Administrators.

During 2013, 9 facility staff transitions occurred due to reassignment, promotion and resignations. All facility Inmate Grievance Programs that had staff transitions during 2013 received assistance from IGP Regional Coordinators. Additionally, there were 7 IGP Central Office staff transitions due to lateral transfers, promotions and resignation. It is noted that during this reporting period the office has been without 1 IGP Supervisor for 7 months and an IGP Coordinator for 11 months. Also, there have been continuous vacancies in support staff throughout this period.

IGP Central Office staff responded to 2,522 letters from inmates, family and friends in 2013, a decrease from the 2,818 last year. In addition they researched and copied grievance case materials for 79 Freedom of Information Law (FOIL) requests from various persons and agencies, an increase from the 64 last year. Relevant to inmate litigation, IGP Central Office staff also researched and gathered grievance documents for 637 inquiries from the Attorney General's staff, an increase from the 609 last year.

IV. Central Office Review Committee (CORC)

The CORC is the final appellate level of the Inmate Grievance Program. The CORC consists of the Deputy Commissioner and Counsel, Deputy Commissioner for Correctional Facilities, Deputy Commissioner for Program Services, Deputy Commissioner for Administrative Services, and Deputy Commissioner and Chief Medical Officer, or their designees expressly authorized to act for them. A representative of the Office of Diversity Management will attend CORC hearings and have input on grievances alleging discrimination, but will not vote. The CORC functions on behalf of the Commissioner and under his authority. The CORC decisions have the effect of directives.

The PLRA of 1995, amended 42 U.S.C. Section 1997e (a), requires that inmates must exhaust available administrative remedies before litigating over prison conditions. This was initially a major factor in the increase in grievance appeals. In addition, there have been two United States Supreme Court decisions that were considered catalysts in the increases. On May 29, 2001, the court decided in Booth v. Churner that even if the administrative remedy does not provide monetary damages, it is still an available remedy.

Subsequently, on February 26, 2002, the court in Porter v. Nussle decided that exhaustion is required in every situation, regardless of the nature of the inmate's underlying claim.

There were 9,934 grievance appeals responded to by CORC, an increase from the 9,894 last year. This reflects an increase of 40 CORC responses. The CORC addressed 11,417 appeals in 2011, 12,419 in 2010, 13,155 in 2009, 15,086 in 2008, 15,506 in 2007, 14,531 in 2006, 15,122 in 2005 and 15,374 in 2004.

Of the 9,934 grievances answered by the CORC in 2013, approximately 59% were determined to be meritorious or have merit in part. In 2012, 52.7% were found to be meritorious or have merit in part. This represents a increase of approximately 7.3% from 2012(See Chart 6).

The CORC dispositions were transmitted back to the grievants in an average of 150 calendar days from the time the appeal was received. This reflects an increase of 31 calendar days from the 119 calendar day average in 2012, and is a direct result of staff shortages.

V. GRIEVANCE TRENDS AND ANALYSIS

There were 31,638 grievances filed in 2013, a decrease from the 32,579 in 2012 or 941 less. Since 2001 the categories with the most grievances, beginning with the highest, have been Medical, Staff Conduct, Housing-Internal Block Affairs, Special Housing Units and Package Room. The grievances filed by inmates in the S-Blocks, Southport C.F. and Upstate C.F. have an impact on each of these categories and are the primary reason the Special Housing Units code remains in the top 5 categories. S-Blocks are double cell Special Housing Units for inmates sanctioned with long-term keeplock and SHU time.

The trends and analysis in each category are consistent with prior years and have rarely changed except as noted below.

1. CODE 22, MEDICAL

There were 6,141 grievances filed in 2013, a decrease from the 6,362 last year or 221 less. These grievances accounted for 19.4% of all grievances filed, a decrease of .1 % from the 19.5% last year.

It is noted that the inmates who regularly file numerous medical complaints for real or perceived medical problems do so at any facility in which they are housed. Thus, many of the issues presented remain constant in this category. It is believed that some medical grievances are filed in order to create a record of the grievant's request for medical attention or in an attempt to enhance medical treatment. There are grievances filed where the requested action is cited as a health concern, even though the request may be non-medical in nature. There continues to be a mild impact on this category by HIPAA, Code 22.1, as evidenced by the 168 grievances filed in 2013, 151 in 2012, 146 in 2011, 178 in 2010, 137 in 2009, 138 in 2008, 196 in 2007 and 151 in 2006.

In some cases, prolific grievants are seriously ill and the numbers of grievances they file often demonstrate anxiety. Many complain of chronic illnesses such as back pain, arthritis, etc. The anxiety results in grievances because of the time frame involved in realizing an outside consult or appointment. This analysis is validated by the repetition in the composition of the complaints. Another factor is the perception on the part of inmates that recommendations made by outside consultants must be implemented without question, when in reality the Facility Health Services Directors as well as the Regional Medical Directors and managed care staff must evaluate the recommendation and have input in the treatment plan.

Further, an inmate's expectation of specific treatment plans and desired medical services often does not fall within the realm of possibility, nor are they medically indicated by facility doctors. Requests for specialty consultants such as dermatologists, podiatrists, ophthalmologists, allergists, neurologists and various others are common. Requests for medical procedures which are not in accordance with the medical provider's policy or the Department's Health Services Policy Manual, and are not ordered by the Facility Health Services Director, account for some of the medical complaints.

In some grievances, a medical condition is cited as the reason for requesting items that are issued on medical order only such as bed boards, orthopedic shoes, eyeglasses, nutritional supplements, eye drops, skin creams, pain medications, medicated shampoos and vitamins. Other examples of special medical requests are single cells, bottom bunks, additional showers, special diets, medical appliances and boxer shorts.

In some instances, the medical condition cited by the inmate does not exist according to that inmate's medical record, nor is it a condition already being addressed by the facility health staff. Access to outside health providers is also a factor in the number of medical grievances. The combination of perceived illness and actual illness within the inmate population is expected to continue to account for a portion of the number of medical complaints.

Movement of inmates confined in S-Blocks, Upstate C.F. and Southport C.F. is limited. Therefore, inmates only come out of their cells for medical examinations when deemed necessary by the facility doctor. However, due to privacy concerns, these inmates feel they should come out for all routine medical contacts.

An increase in the number of wheelchair inmates brought Americans with Disability Act (ADA) issues such as supplies, higher beds, and catheters, outside trips, replacement wheelchairs and assistants.

The description of grievances in the medical category is intended to demonstrate the variety of complaints received and is not a complete list of medical grievances.

2. CODE 49, STAFF CONDUCT

There were 5,471 grievances filed in 2013, an increase from the 5,296 last year or 175 more. These grievances accounted for 17.3% of all grievances filed, an increase of 1% from the 16.3 % last year.

A significant number of staff conduct grievances continues to be attributed to inmate interaction with staff resulting in misbehavior reports. The perception among staff is that some of the harassment complaints are filed in an attempt to discredit misbehavior reports and to recover the $5.00 surcharge imposed. A January 1992 revision of Title 7, NYCRR authorizes the surcharge.

Code 49, Staff Conduct, has remained in the five most grieved categories due to the wide range of issues that could be perceived and presented by inmates as inappropriate staff conduct or harassment. A review of the titles in this code substantiates that these types of grievances are inflated by inmate perception, any difference of opinion with staff and an inmate's unfamiliarity with facility policies or statewide rules.

Direct orders are commonly seen as a form of harassment, and an inmate's failure to follow procedures may result in the loss of an opportunity to participate in an activity. An example of this is when an inmate neglects to respond to announcements concerning the commencement of certain activities or the preparation of a list by staff of inmates who wish to participate in an upcoming activity. The inmate may be unable to participate and, consequently, files a grievance due to the perception of unfair treatment or that staff could have made an exception. The logistics involved in coordinating the activities and movement of large groups of people have not traditionally been readily appreciated by an inmate who files this type of complaint, since this would not support strict adherence to rules governing callouts, attendance and movement.

The examples of grievances in the staff conduct category are intended to demonstrate the variety of complaints received and are not a complete list of staff conduct grievances.

3. CODE 23, HOUSING-INTERNAL BLOCK AFFAIRS

There were 1,971 grievances filed in 2013, an increase from the 1,952 last year or 19 more. These grievances accounted for 6.2% of all grievances filed, an increase of .2% from the 6% last year.

Grievances in this code concern physical housing conditions/issues such as double celling, double bunking, cube space, ventilation, furniture, hot water, heat, window screens and storage space.

Service related grievances include cell cleaning supplies, laundering of clothes and linen, winter blankets, list taking and call out procedures, haircuts, feed up meals, and maintenance of housing areas. Other grievances pertain to enforcement of cell standards, cell moves, honor block denials, denial of items or services, cleanliness, pest control measures, removal from double bunk beds, staff performance of duties, distribution of personal mail, mailboxes, razor issue policy, bulletin boards, posting of memos, announcements over the public address system, television cable and radio/television volume.

The noted issues in this category are intended to demonstrate the variety of complaints filed in Code 23 and are not a complete list of housing unit complaints.

4. CODE 24, SPECIAL HOUSING UNITS

There were 1,488 grievances filed in 2013, a decrease from the 1,719 last year or 231 less. These grievances accounted for 4.7% of all grievances filed, a decrease of .6% from the 5.3% last year.

There were 1,476 grievances filed by S-Block inmates in 2013, 719 less than the 2,195 last year. Also, there were 4,214 grievances filed by inmates housed in the Upstate and Southport C.F. Special Housing Units in 2013, a decrease from the 5,703 last year or 1,489 less. Some of the inmates transferred to these units were from maximum security facilities where they were in keeplock status in a general population cell. As a condition of confinement, the inmates must follow the SHU policies consistent with Directive #4933, which limits property in the cell, visits, packages, inmate contact, etc. Therefore, they grieve all aspects of the SHU policies.

Other issues include smoking, cell cleanup, the Progressive Inmate Movement System (PIMS) level, food and library materials.

The grievances in this category deal with SHU issues and do not reflect the actual number of grievances filed from SHU.

Additionally, Marcy S-Block was closed on 11/9/07 and converted to an Office of Mental Health (OMH) housing and treatment unit.

5. CODE 30, PACKAGE ROOM

There were 1,381 grievances filed in 2013, an increase from the 1,336 filed last year or 45 more. These grievances accounted for 4.4% of all grievances filed, an increase of .3% from the 4.1% last year.

Many package room complaints result from a difference in security staff and inmate interpretation of Departmental Directive #4911, entitled "Packages & Articles Sent or Brought to Facilities". The directive describes items permitted to be received and the provisions thereof. The package room complaints have not substantially changed, and involve receipt of items such as hot pots, typewriters, watches, sneakers, food items and musical instruments. Other issues still focus around an inmate's desire for items not allowed by directive because they are too valuable and present security concerns. Some do not conform to the requirements of the directive, such as packaging for food products and colors of clothing. In addition, some items require approval of the Superintendent via special permit.

As in past years, the technological advancement in the design and variety of otherwise allowable items results in their denial, since the item is essentially changed and may no longer conform to package room guidelines.

The number of package room grievances was also affected by the S-Block and Upstate C.F. inmates who were moved from a maximum security keeplock situation to the S-Block or Upstate C.F. The inmate, although not on a loss of packages disposition, falls under the Special Housing Unit (SHU) policies regarding the limitation of packages as outlined in Directive #4933.
