

45th Annual African American Day Parade
September 25, 2014

New York's 45th Annual African American Day Parade took place on Sunday, September 21, 2014 in New York City. The event kicked off with a breakfast at the Harlem Tavern where Governor Andrew M. Cuomo attended and gave brief remarks. Over 30 Community Supervision staff including managers, supervisors, parole officers and their children marched in the parade on Adam Clayton Powell Boulevard, from W. 111th Street to W. 136th Street. The purpose of the parade is to provide an opportunity for everyone to join together on a special day to highlight the history and to salute African Americans in all communities for their outstanding achievements in all areas.
