

NYC Parole Region Hosts Employment Resource Fair

February 17, 2015

On a recent winter day, Community Supervision personnel in the NYC region hosted an Employment Resource Fair for over 50 individuals currently under supervision who were seeking services which could lead to permanent employment. The providers offered training in various fields such as culinary, refrigeration repair, construction and software programming. Apploi loaned 6 devices for the job fair, which allow parolees to conduct on-line job research and record on-line job interviews.

Parole Officer Dorsey spearheaded the event and found there was much excitement about the opportunities. DOCCS is proud of its community partnership with the providers who attended the fair and we are thankful for their support to our parolee population.
